Teachers' Notes

- ❑ The PiXL therapies can be taught to a whole class or a target group. Each therapy is editable so that it can be adapted or extended.
- ❑ Each therapy begins with a LORIC activity to develop relevant character attributes.
- ❑ This is followed by a vocabulary task, which uses the PiXL 5-phase approach to teach key vocabulary. Further resources to develop vocabulary can be found in the Whole School area under the PiXL Unlock strategy.
- ❑ Each therapy adopts the 'Teach, model and apply' process with plenty of opportunities for pupils to demonstrate the taught skill.
- ❑ A range of question types are included to promote pupils' developing security by testing the same skill in different ways.

Progress across amber – the 4-stage model

The three therapy tests which accompany this resource can be used to revisit the taught skill to check that the pupil is able to perform it independently and consistently.

A

A child has successfully completed a therapy test independently, following a set of therapy sessions.

A

A child has successfully completed a therapy test independently, a period after the relevant therapy sessions – we would advise about 2 weeks.

DA

A child has successfully applied their knowledge or skill in an unfamiliar context. This may be application across the curriculum or in a problem.

G

A pupil has successfully re-visited the skills at a later point, and applies these in an unfamiliar context or problem, or across the curriculum.

Punctuation

Inverted commas go around speech (what someone has said)

Insert inverted commas:

“It’s nearly bedtime. Hurry up!” shouted mum.

A conversation

What time did you arrive?

I got here just before noon.

Goodness me, that is late!

Karl

Meena

Hamish

What is being said?

How do you know?

Speech bubbles have been used to show what is being said.

Inverted commas “ ”

Our writing would begin to look very messy if we had to draw a speech bubble every time someone spoke. We can turn this conversation into a written text by using inverted commas.

“What time did you arrive?” asked Karl.

Inverted commas “ ”

“What time did you arrive?” asked Karl.

Did you notice that the inverted commas are placed on either side of the words that are spoken?

Inverted commas mark the beginning and end of direct speech.

A conversation

Which words are actually spoken by these people? How do you know?

“What time did you arrive?” asked Karl.

“I got here just before noon,” replied Meena.

“Goodness me, that is late!” exclaimed Hamish.

Practise

Which words are spoken in the sentences below?

“I can see land ahead,” stated Nisha.

“We are still being chased by pirates!” yelled
Simon.

“Can we get to island before they catch us?”
questioned Nisha.

Punctuation for direct speech

What other punctuation marks are used apart from the inverted commas?

“What time did you arrive?” asked Karl.

“I got here just before noon,” replied
Meena.

“Goodness me, that is late!” exclaimed
Hamish.

Punctuation for direct speech

Direct speech needs inverted commas and a relevant punctuation mark.

- If the speech is a question, use a question mark.
- If the speech is something said with strong emotion, use an exclamation mark.
- For all other speech, the break between the spoken and the non-spoken words is indicated by a comma.

Rules for writing speech

Let's put all this together. There are 5 steps that you need to follow to punctuate simple direct speech. They are:

1. Identify or decide what is being spoken.
2. Open the inverted commas and start speech with a capital letter.
3. Write what the character actually says.
4. Write the appropriate punctuation and close the inverted commas.
5. Write who said the words and how they said it, finishing with a full stop.

Writing speech

When writing speech, we need to work through the rules systematically.

Let's write Olly Organisation's speech using inverted commas.

"When writing speech, we need to work through the rules systematically," advised Olly Organisation.

Practise

Insert the inverted commas into the sentences below.
Remember, inverted commas mark the beginning and end of direct speech.

You look tired, said Mrs Hughes.

Is that my lunchbox? asked Grant.

Practise

Now you have a go on your own. Write the speech in the speech bubbles using inverted commas.

Can you please help me?

I have found the smallest fish ever!

This is my favourite game.

Challenge:
Can you use a different word for 'said' when writing your speech?

How did you do?

“Can you please help me?” asked Micah.

“I have found the smallest fish ever!” yelled Zac.

“This is my favourite game,” laughed Zara.

Practise

Each sentence below has a mistake. Can you find it and then rewrite the speech accurately?

“I can’t wait for the holidays, said Isla.”

“who would like to do some painting?” the teacher asked.

“Elephants are known for their large ears, tusks and their trunks,” Explained the ranger.

How did you do?

“I can’t wait for the holidays,” said Isla.”

“Who would like to do some painting?” the teacher asked.

“Elephants are known for their large ears, tusks and their trunks,” Explained the ranger.

Review

Things to remember:

- All spoken words are inside the inverted commas.
- All non-spoken words are outside the inverted commas.
- All speech starts with a capital letter.
- The 'said' verb (e.g. asked, shouted, explained) never has a capital letter.
- The break between the speech and the non-spoken part will be either a comma, a question mark or an exclamation mark.
- Always add who is speaking and finish the sentence with a full stop.
